PERFORMING ARTS 401

Two Credits

Independent work culminating in a written and oral presentation. Projects may include performance, directing, design, portfolio, research, and creative writing.

The presentation will be made before faculty, staff, and interested students during final exam week.

The written and oral presentation should include the best of the student’s work while on campus. Following the presentation, there will be a question and answer session led by the individual student and involving as many audience members as choose to participate.

By February 29, each student in Perf 401 should have met with Jane Cox to discuss what he or she is anticipating writing and presenting. Additional individual meetings will be scheduled during March and April.
